Agreement

As a group, we agree to work on the project title mentioned above. We will follow all official project guidelines and descriptions. We will maintain open and respectful communication within our group. In the event of any disagreements, we will engage in constructive discussions and work toward mutually acceptable compromises. We will respond to emails and messages promptly. We will schedule regular meetings and ensure that all members attend and are informed in advance. We agree to abide by the terms and guidelines outlined in this group agreement and the project guidelines and descriptions.

Additional Rules for Fair Contribution

- If a member misses 1 scheduled meeting and fails to contribute to the project's tasks, that member will have to bring a cake in the next meeting. If a member misses more than 3 consecutive meetings and fails to contribute to the project tasks without prior notice, then the rest of the group has the authority to initiate voting to remove the member from the group.
- All members are expected to contribute equally to the project's workload. If a member consistently underperforms, the group may discuss the issue and, if necessary, escalate it to the course instructor after attempting internal resolution.
- Decisions will be made by majority vote unless consensus is reached.
- All group communications and meeting attendance will be documented for transparency.
- Members are expected to inform the group at least 1 hour (besides urgent situations like illness, hospitalization etc.) in advance if they are unable to attend a meeting or complete an assigned task.

- Repeated irresponsibility or lack of participation (such as missing deadlines for assigned tasks) may lead to the same removal procedure as for missed meetings.
- Any removal of a member from the group must be decided by a majority vote with the approval of the course coordinator and documented in writing.
